DISSATISFIED BACON CURERS

TO MEET PRICES COMMISSION

THE price of bacon may be changed from early next week. The "Irish Times" learned yesterday that growing dissatisfaction among curers had led them to approach the Government, and a meeting between the curers and the Prices Commission is to take place to-day.

"ABSURD SITUATION"

On August 30th, 1941, Emergency Powers Order 101 fixed the price of unsmoked bacon to the retailer at 149s. a cwt. An important retailer states that he has been informed by his wholesaler that the price of certain sides is 165s.

Investigating the position, a reporter talked yesterday to the manager of a wholesale business. "The situation," said this manager, "is absurd. We are supposed to pay the curer the fixed price of 149s. a cwt., but we have, in actual fact, paid much more. A recent price was 157s. So, how can we be expected to sell to the retailer at the fixed price?"

A "gentleman's agreement," he continued, between curers and the Prices Commission recently laid it down that wholesalers should be allowed a margin of 8s. on the cwt.

The price of smoked bacon, of course, was higher. More expensive on both consumer and retailer, it was sold by the wholesaler at 12s. a cwt. more than the green bacon.

BACON SHRINKAGE

Adding to the difficulties of the wholesaler, our informant went on, was the fact that bacon suffered great loss and shrinkage in its career from killer to consumer. Salt melts and pickling dries out. The curer allows one per cent. from factory to wholesaler to help cover this loss.

The loss on smoked bacon is greater than on green. At present it stands between 9 and 10 pounds weight on the cwt.

"And on to this," said the manager, "you must add wages, overheads and the cost of turf—we have to pay £3 a ton for the hard, brown turf which does not produce too much heat and yet gives a lot of smoke. The profit which we are allowed on bacon is too small. Butter merchants take 7s. on the cwt., and butter does not shrink or lose weight."

The whole question of bacon costs is believed to be most involved. Curers are supposed to pay pig producers 112s. a cwt. for dead-weight pigs. Actually they have paid—and very recently—sums ranging from 123s. to 126s.

According to the wholesale manager, the reason for this is that curers are so anxious to buy in pigs, which are difficult to obtain now, that they are almost prepared to pay any price in order to keep their factories going.

Is bacon short?

When this question was put to our informant, together with a quotation from the Pigs and Bacon Commission's advertisement in yesterday's Press, which states: "Bacon Is Plentiful," he said: "No; bacon is not plentiful. Pigs are not plentiful. Pigs are scarce, because pig-feed is scarce. That is a fact. All day on Monday last our staff stood idle in the yard because we could get no bacon. Supply comes irregularly, and at no time can you get the quantity you want.'

Another source stated that bacon distribution was down to one-third.

The quality of bacon has disimproved, our reporter was told, owing to inferior feeding-stuffs. One month before killing a pig should be fed on "dry-feed," bran, pollard or Indian meal, none of which were available last year.

Present-day bacon was more like pickled pork. It made the loss from the curer's point of view even greater. The meat was not firm: it shrank more, and contained a lot of moisture. Retailers said that it was soft, and would not cut well in the machines.

COMMISSION'S VIEWS

Our reporter later asked an official of the Pigs and Bacon Commission if he had anything to say regarding the quantity of bacon available, and the prices which were being charged for it.

"We, of the Commission," was the reply, "are not the price-fixing authority for bacon, but for pigs. We merely quote the prices fixed by the Department of Supplies. As far as quantity goes, the entire pig production of the country is being retained for home consumption.

"None is being exported to Great Britain. Bacon supplies are equal to the demand."

RETAILER'S OFFER

The bacon retailer who recently issued a challenge to the authorities in the matter of the amount which he had been overcharged by the curers said yesterday that there had been no further developments in the case. The sum in question was one of approximately £900. If he got this back he would, as stated, hand it over in full to the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Asked if they would accept, a member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society told our reporter yesterday that they would, and thankfully.

INVASION OF BRITAIN

A "CERTAINTY," SAYS COLONEL KNOX

CHICAGO, Wednesday.—Invasion of the Near East and the British Isles is "a certainty the moment the German iron octopus can get itself ready for the assault," and the United States is on the German list of "unfinished business," declared Colonel Knox, U.S. Secretary of the Navy, broadcasting in Chicago to-day.

Calling for renewed efforts to curb accidents among defence workers, Colonel Knox said that in normal times these mishaps caused no irreparable damage to the nation's security, "but not now, not to-day, with Hitler's fanatics blasting at the gates of Leningrad and Odessa, with his Stuka bombers eager to return to their winter night attacks on British industrial centres, with an actual invasion of the Near East and the British Isles not a possibility, but a certainty, the moment the German iron octopus can get itself ready for the assault."

He urged saftey experts to redouble their efforts, and maintained that the doom or triumph of the Germans depends largely on the speed with which American materials can be sent to Hitler's foes.

"We all know that more ships are being sunk by Hitler's submarines than are being built, although we have reason to believe that the battle of the Atlantic is turning in favour of the Democracies.

"Every gallon of gas (petrol) you and I save will aid the release of tankers to Britain, and for American defence purposes."—(Press Association Foreign Special.)

DUBLIN SHOOTING INCIDENT

The young man who was taken into custody at Dorset street, Dublin, on Tuesday night, following a shooting incident, is Daniel Reid, stated to be a native of Belfast.

When called upon by detectives to halt, Reid and another man continued to run away, and the police opened fire on them.

Reid, who was caught after a short chase, was believed at first to have been wounded. It was officially stated yesterday, however, that no one had been wounded in the affair.

FIERCE RESISTANCE TO GERMAN ASSAULT

BERLIN CLAIMS NEW VICTORIES

MARSHAL TIMOSHENKO'S armies, on the road to Moscow, are striking back at the great German offensive in the biggest battle of the war.

As the Germans claimed to have thrust forward on the central front to within 130 miles of the Soviet capital, Russian war reports last night claimed that the Red Army, warding off assault after assault in the Vyasma battle, had annihilated two enemy battalions.

"Red Star," in a special call to the Soviet forces in "this hour of grave danger for our State," admitted that Hitler's panzers had pierced Soviet defence positions, but that the achievement cost the Germans 198 tanks.

The situation is unquestionably serious — telegraphs Reuter's Special Correspondent in Moscow—but the Soviet Marshal may be relied upon to have a counter-stroke ready.

Authoritative quarters in London pointed out that either the Russians had withdrawn or the Germans had succeeded in making wedges in their lines at Briansk and Vyasma.

The German High Command, in a special announcement last night, claimed that six or seven Soviet divisions had been completely encircled in the Sea of Azov area and faced "immediate annihilation." A German panzer army, supported by Italian, Hungarian and Slovak units, has reached the Sea of Azov, it is claimed, while Berlin dispatches to Stockholm say that the Dnieper dam town of Zaporozhe is now in German hands, as well as Mariupol and Ossipenko.

There is no confirmation in London of these claims, but if they are true, Marshal Budyenny's troops attempting to relieve the Crimea are in danger of being cut off.—(Press Association and Reuter.)

CALL TO RED ARMY

MOSCOW, Wednesday.—Two German battalions, thrown into the Vyasma battle yesterday evening, were completely wiped out, according to reports from the front to-night.

Fighting in the sector where they attacked raged fiercely until 3 p.m. yesterday, the Russians warding off a number of assaults. After a two hours' lull the two German battalions moved forward in an attempt to take a position, but the Soviet troops held their fire until the Germans had approached close to their positions, and then attacked with devastating effect.

Six German 'planes were brought down yesterday on the approaches to Moscow, and at least three were shot down in air battles. Throughout the day solitary 'planes tried to reach the capital, but none succeeded.

"GRAVE DANGER"

"In this hour of grave danger for our State, the life of every Soviet warrior belongs to the Fatherland," declares Red Star—the Red Army organ—to-day. "Red Army men, defend your country bravely, skilfully, with dignity and honour. Give unsparingly of your blood and life itself for the achievement of final victory over the enemy."—(Reuter.)

ROSTOV THREATENED

STOCKHOLM, Wednesday.—In the Ukraine Berlin claims that the Dnieper dam town of Zaporozhe is now in German hands, in addition to the towns of Mariupol and Ossipenko, on the Sea of Azov, according to Swedish correspondents in the German capital.

Rostov, at the mouth of the Don, is said to be directly threatened Swedish correspondents at Terijoki, on the Finnish coast, report that the Soviet naval base of Kronstadt—15 miles distant—is under constant bombardment from the air, but the island's batteries and Soviet warships are maintaining their fire.

On the Karelian front the situation is apparently stabilised around the 1939 border.—(Reuter.)

NAPOLEON'S ROAD

MOSCOW, Wednesday.—The official announcement that fierce fighting is raging in the Vjasma sector has caused some surprise here. It discloses a German attempt to reach the capital by a direct thrust along Napoleon's invasion road, the route they failed to penetrate in July, when their plans were upset by the terrific defence of Marshal Timoshenko's armies. The road's natural defences, in the form of forests and rivers are fewer than in the Briansk sector or in the Valdai Hills. But the Soviet Command has always kept its eye on this point, and defence in depth is probably more thoroughly organised here than anywhere else.—(Reuter.)

GERMAN CLAIMS

BERLIN, Wednesday.—The German High Command announced to-night:—"In a bold operation from the area east of Dnepropetrovsk a German panzer army, reinforced by Italian, Hungarian and Slovak units, has advanced to the Sea of Azov and barred the retreat of the Ninth Soviet Army, which was defeated in a frontal engagement near Melitopol. At the same time German and Rumanian forces have continued the pursuit from the west. During this operation a fast unit of an S.S. regiment succeeded in pushing forward along the coast of the Sea of Azov to Berdyansk and joining hands with the panzer forces coming from the north.

"Tightly encircled on all sides six to seven enemy divisions here are facing immediate annihilation. The weak remnants of the defeated enemy which are attempting to retreat to Rostov have already been followed by the S.S. Unit to Mariupol."—(Reuter.)

RUMANIAN RETREAT

MOSCOW, Wednesday.—As a result of a surprise counter-attack Odessa's defenders have flung back Rumanian forces at one point of the city's defences and recaptured a number of positions, says Izvestia. Heavy losses were inflicted on the newly-reinforced 13th and 15th Rumanian infantry divisions. Heavy tanks preceded the Soviet troops, and infantry, rushing into the breaches, drove the Rumanians towards their second defence line. One Soviet unit cut off the retreat of the 89th Regiment of the 13th Division, which was completely annihilated. The Russians continued to push the enemy back until all objectives had been occupied.—(Reuter.)

GERMAN AIMS

STOCKHOLM, Wednesday. — Germany's latest offensive is "aimed at dealing the Russian forces a blow from which they will be unable to recover," authoritative Berlin quarters state, according to Swedish correspondents. The occupation of towns is not specifically aimed at, but Moscow "will eventually enter into the sphere of operations, and its fall will be automatic." Whether the capital is stormed, surrenders, or is evacuated is immaterial," it is added.—(Reuter.)

RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUE

The Russian communiqué, issued to-night, states:—

"During October 8 our troops fought the enemy along the whole front, and with particular stubbornness in the Vyasma, Briansk and Melitipol directions. After fierce fighting our troops evacuated Orel. On October 6 nineteen nemy aircraft were brought down in air combat. Our losses were 12 aircraft. Ten German 'planes were brought down at the approaches to Moscow on October 7. According to incomplete data, six 'planes were brought down on October 8. At the approaches to Leningrad a group of our fighter and bombing 'planes raided enemy transport columns and destroyed 47 German lorries carrying infantry, as well as one lorry containing supplies, and five anti-aircraft gun emplacements. In an engagement with enemy aircraft that were guarding a column, two Messerschmitt 109s were brought down.

"In the south-western direction of the front our Air Force destroyed in one day 81 tanks, 180 lorries, with infantry and ammunition, four guns, four fuel tanks, and many motor cycles."—(Reuter.)

40,000 TO 50,000 A MONTH

WOMEN ENTERING BRITISH INDUSTRY

The end of reservation from military service on the basis of age, trade or profession, and its substitution by individual exemptions, was forecast yesterday by Mr. Ernest Bevin, British Minister of Labour, when he replied to the man-power debate in the House of Commons. Women, he said, are now entering industry at the rate of 40,000 to 50,000 a month.

NO INCREASE IN GRAIN PRICES

The Minister for Agriculture states that the price to growers of malting barley—namely, 30s. per barrel—and the prices to growers for feeding barley and for oats —namely, 28s. and 18s. 8d., respectively—will not be increased until 1st January, 1942. The increase then permitted is 1s. 4d. per barrel for barley and 1s. 2d. for oats. These increased prices will continue until 1st March, 1942, when the final seasonal increase of a further 1d. per stone will come into force.

CHANNEL CONVOY DISPERSED

BERLIN, Wednesday.—German long-range batteries dispersed a British convoy in the Channel to-day, claims the German News Agency to-night.—(Reuter.)

BRITISH AUXILIARY VESSEL SUNK

A British official Admiralty communiqué last night says:—

"The Board of Admiralty regrets to announce that H.M.S. Corfield (Commander W. J. Tucker, R.N.V.R.), an auxiliary vessel, has been sunk.

"There were no casualties."

As from Saturday next, Limerick City gas service will be cut off from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. until further notice.

U.S. HELP FOR RUSSIA

President Roosevelt has sent a letter to M. Stalin in which he says:—

"Mr. Hopkins has told me in great detail of his encouraging and satisfactory visits with you. I cannot tell you how thrilled all of us are because of the gallant defence of the Soviet armies.

"I am confident ways will be found to provide the material and supplies necessary to fight Hitler on all fronts, including your own.

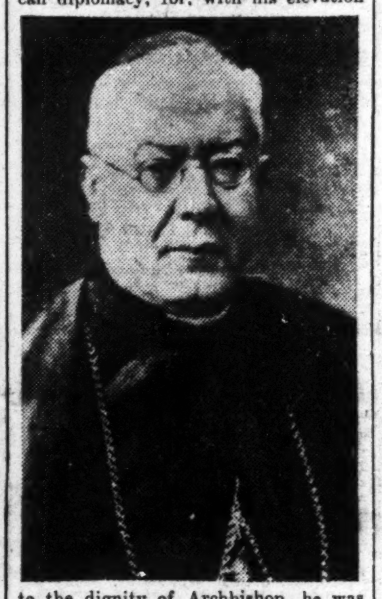
"I want particularly to take this occasion to express my great confidence that your armies will ultimately prevail over Hitler and to assure you of our great determination to be of every possible material assistance." — (Associated Press.)

DEATH OF CARDINAL LAURI

HIS VISIT TO DUBLIN RECALLED

The death has occurred in Rome of Cardinal Lorenzo Lauri, Penitentiary Major to the Holy See. Cardinal Lauri was aged 77. His presence in this country as Papal Legate on the occasion of the Thirty-First Eucharistic Congress in Dublin in June, 1932, is still fresh in the memory of Irish people.

Besides being one of the outstanding members of the Sacred College, Cardinal Lauri was a "Roman of the Romans." He was born in the Italian Capital on October 15, 1864, and, after a brilliant scholastic career, began a long period of distinguished service as a Professor in the College de Propaganda Fide. There he remained until January 5, 1917, when he was elected Archbishop of Ephesus. Cardinal Lauri then entered the ranks of Vatican diplomacy, for, with his elevation to the dignity of Archbishop, he was conjointly appointed Inter-Nuncio to Peru. Within six months he became Nuncio, and for four years did outstanding work for the advancement of the Church in Peru. On May 25, 1921, he succeeded the late Pope Pius XI. as Nuncio to Poland, where he worked for a further five years with unflagging zeal.



On December 21, 1926, Cardinal Lauri became a member of the Sacred College, and on June 23 of the following year he received the Red Hat, his titular church being that of St. Pancratius. Exactly a month later he was nominated to the position which he held at the time of his death—that of Great Penitentiary of the Sacred Apostolic Penitentiaria.

During his long period as Professor at the famous Propaganda College, Cardinal Lauri had as his students many Irish Bishops and priests. Among them were the late Most Rev. Dr. Byrne, Archbishop of Dublin; the Most Rev. Dr. Wall, Titular Bishop of Thasos; many Vicars-General, and several priests and members of the Chapter of the Archdiocese of Dublin. He had a great predilection for the students of the Irish College, Rome, and stayed every summer at their vacation residence at Tivoli. Among the many honours he received during his visit to this country as Legate in 1932 was the Civic Freedom of Dublin and of Kilkenny.

When Cardinal Lauri signed the Roll of Freemen of Dublin in the Mansion House he spoke warmly of "this dear City of Dublin and its distinguished and generous people." On the occasion of his passing the people of Dublin and of the whole country will have kindly memories of him.

CARDINAL MACRORY'S MESSAGE

On hearing of the death of Cardinal Lauri His Eminence Cardinal MacRory sent the following cable to His Eminence Cardinal Maglione, Vatican City:—

"On behalf of Catholic Ireland and myself, deepest sympathy to the Holy Father and the Sacred College on Cardinal Lauri's death."

A message of sympathy on the death of Cardinal Lauri has been sent by the Taoiseach (Mr. de Valera) to the Cardinal Secretary of State at the Vatican.

£1,500,000,000 TO AID ALLIES

U.S. TO SPEED UP WAR SUPPLIES

"PRODUCTION must increase until a torrent of war supplies is pouring from the United States," says the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee in a report to Congress yesterday. The Committee approved the £1,500,000,000 lease-lend appropriation, adding a statement that the production of munitions had not yet reached a point where the defeat of the Axis Powers was assured.

Almost all of the huge new fund could be allocated by March 1, the report said, and delivery of the material completed not later than June 30, 1943.

MORE MUNITIONS

"Munitions superiority must be achieved to ensure the defeat of the Axis," says the report. "Production in the countries opposed to the Axis has not yet reached a point at this time to achieve this. The battle of production must intensify and increase until the torrent of war supplies pouring from this country and from the nations aided completely overwhelms the productive efforts of the Axis. Our first line of defence lies in the Lend-Lease operations."

FOOD FOR BRITAIN

The report discloses that the Secretary for Agriculture plans to use £250,000,000 to feed one-fourth of Britain's population for the next six months. It also states that Mr. Stimson, Secretary for War, believes the world crisis is "no less acute—indeed, if anything, is sharper"—than heretofore, and that officials repeatedly asserted that it would be "dangerous" to deny to Russia the benefits of the Lease-Lend programme, even though such aid was not now contemplated.

FACTORY CAPACITY

The report notes that between 15 and 20 per cent. of the nation's factory capacity is devoted to the production of war material, and predicts that half the industrial capacity will be so devoted by June, 1943.

Concerning aid for Russia, the report comments:—"Nothing would be more discouraging to the morale of the Russian Government and Russian people, in their heroic and surprising resistance to Axis conquest, than to fear that the President of the United States had been precluded from rendering aid to them should he find it possible and expedient to do so with these funds."

NEUTRALITY ACT CHANGES

NEW YORK, Wednesday.—President Roosevelt is sending a message to Congress to-morrow recommending changes in the Neutrality Act. The announcement was made after the White House conference to-day by Congressional leaders.

A bill is also to be introduced in the House of Representatives to-morrow to permit American merchantmen to carry arms. Legislative leaders reported that they had agreed that such legislation should be introduced.

Such legislation could be put through the House before the end of next week, those attending the conference said. One of those present told reporters that if the bill to arm ships was passed by a substantial majority, it was possible that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would consider broadening the measure to eliminate restrictions on the movements of ships.—(Reuter.)

SHIPPING LOSSES

Rear-Admiral Land, Chairman of the Maritime Commission, said that Germany would fail in her efforts to block delivery of Lease-Lend supplies, unless she increases her sinkings to a point "greater than they have ever been before in the history of the world." Although, he said, 25 per cent. of the world's 1939 shipping tonnage had been sunk, the United States is "in a position to build during 1942-43 in the neighbourhood of 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 tons of shipping, and there is no record of continuous losses greater than that, with the possible exception of the submarine sinkings in a month or two during the last war." He estimated that the maintenance from November 1, 1941, until May 31, 1942, of the Red Sea and Near East shipping service would cost about £16,000,000, the North Atlantic service about £24,000,000, and the service to China £6,000,000.

REDUCED MAIL SERVICES

CORK HANDICAPPED

The reduced railway and mail services will be a terrible handicap to business in Cork, said the Lord Mayor (Mr. John Horgan) at Cork Harbour Board yesterday, when he suggested that local Dail deputies should discuss with the Minister whether something could be done to facilitate the people of Cork, at least in the matter of their correspondence. The Government, he added, might be able to provide for fast lorries or vans to convey the mails. If Cork was reduced to one train a day, it would mean it would take four or five days to exchange letters with Dublin. "Nobody," he continued, "seems to take the position as seriously as it ought to be taken. We seem to be drifting from one condition of backwardness to another, just trusting to luck. To my mind there should be more activity and a great sense of responsibility on the part of the powers that be as to their duties to the public.

Mr. J. Hickey, T.D., mentioned that he had been in communication with Mr. Lemass on another point—the question of fuel shortage. Everything was being done in such matters as they arose, to bring them before the Government, but he was afraid there was very little control by the Government over circumstances as they existed. Mr. Lemass had replied to him, regretting the short notice given to merchants in regard to fuel supplies, but pointing out that the Government had got similarly short notice from the suppliers

The Chairman, Mr. S. Fitzgerald, said he felt that the matter concerning the mails needed only ventilation to be redressed.

It was agreed that the Dail deputies of Cork City and County be requested to make an effort to get the position improved.

PRESENTATION TO DR. KIERNAN

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT RECEPTION

An exquisitely wrought miniature Irish Brian Boru harp, in solid silver, with a Celtic répoussé ornament, mounted on a base of Connemara marble, and suitably inscribed, was presented to Dr. T. J. Kiernan, retiring Director of Broadcasting, at a reception given in his honour at the Clarence Hotel, Dublin, last night. A bouquet of pink carnations was presented to Mrs. Kiernan.

The Rev. Father Gerald, O.F.M.Cap., said that Mrs. Kiernan also had endeared herself to the Irish people by singing herself into their hearts.

Mr. D. L. Kelleher made the presentation to Dr. Kiernan, who thanked everybody present for their kind tribute.

Amongst those present were: Dr. James Ryan (Minister for Agriculture) and Mrs. Ryan, Commendatore Vincenzo Berardis (Italian Minister) and Signora Berardis, Mrs. P. J. Little; the Very Rev. GREAT FIRES AT PIRÆUS

R.A.F. ATTACK ON OIL INSTALLATIONS

GREAT quantities of Axis oil were destroyed at midnight on Monday last, when Royal Air Force night bombers attacked fuel concentrations, harbour buildings and shipping at the Piræus, the port of Athens.

Extensive fires were caused, and "it is believed that the oil installations were completely gutted," said the Air Ministry News Service.

According to Wednesday's Royal Air Force Middle East communiqué:—

"A highly successful raid was carried out by bombers of the Royal Air Force during the night of October 6-7 on oil installations, harbour buildings and shipping at the Piræus. Widespread fires, which covered the whole target area with clouds of dense black smoke rising to a height of 2,000 feet and subsequent heavy explosions, resulted from the attack on the oil installations. The bombing of chemical works, warehouses and pier facilities was equally successful.

"On the night of October 6-7, naval aircraft dropped bombs on hangars and slipways at Marsala, on the dispersal area at Gherbini and among warehouses at Northern Licata.

"During the previous day Comiso aerodrome was raided, considerable damage being done to barrack buildings, hangars and troops' quarters.

"A direct hit was obtained on a large merchant ship in Tripoli Harbour, and many bombs fell on the Spanish quay and near the Karamanli mole during an attack carried out by Royal Air Force bombers on the night of October 6-7. On the same night our bombers caused large fires among fuel dumps near Bardia.

"Important military objectives at Gambut were attacked by a combined force of South African Air Force and Royal Australian Air Force aircraft in a successful raid. Enemy fighters intercepted, but were driven off, one or two being damaged in combat.

"From these and other operations all our aircraft returned safely."

14 CZECHS EXECUTED

BERLIN, Wednesday. — Fourteen Czechs were to-day hanged, says a Prague telegram. They were sentenced by courtsmartial, owing to continued economic sabotage.

Thirty people have been shot in Cuprija because they belonged to Communist bands, states a Belgrade telegram. Two other Communists have been shot in Jagodina.

All Jews in Bohemia and Moravia have been ordered to wear a yellow star, like Jews in Germany, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten.

A big fire—the tenth within a week in the district—has broken out in a chemical factory at Bonthierry, France, states Swiss radio. Damage amounted to from 4 to 6 million francs, and arson is suspected.—(Reuter.)

NO OIL FOR JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—The United States, Britain and the Netherlands Government have agreed to stop all shipments of oil to Japan, according to authoritative quarters. Whatever oil Japan may be getting, responsible officials stated, is coming from places other than territories controlled by these three Governments. The agreement was made shortly after the three Governments on July 26 had frozen all Japanese assets in their territories.—(Reuter.)

IN MEMORIAM.

BRYAN—Ninth Anniversary — In tenderest and ever-living memory of our beloved Donough. R.I.P.—Pookie and Mummie.

DAVIDSON—In loving memory of my dear husband, Charles Davidson, M. Navy, lost in the Atlantic, October 9th, 1940. "Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee."

GENTLEMAN—In eternal memory of Lily Gentleman, artist and singer, who fell asleep on 8th October, 1938.

Beauty and Peace
fall from these fretful days:
War's leperous breath
mildews Youth's noble dawn;
all that Art garnered, in Truth's Golden Horn, lies crumpled and corrupt in forms rut-worn.
But your sweet songs
ring in my raptured ears, through Time's dread mists trembles your tender breath
so do you keep again our promised Feast, victorious, Beloved, o'er baleful Death.

MILLS—In sweet memory of my darling husband, William T. Mills, late 9 Mespil road, entered rest 9th October, 1940. "Till He come." In the garden of remembrance we walk each day.

RAILWAY CLERKS' CONFERENCE

A special All-Ireland Delegate Conference of the Railway Clerks' Association, Mr. W. P. Greene, Irish Executive member, presiding, unanimously recorded its "surprise and disappointment" at the findings of the Irish Railways Wages Board on the war bonus applications on Irish railways made by the three railway workers' trade unions.

A resolution unanimously condemning the Trade Union Act, 1941, and pledging the Association to work for its repeal, was passed. The conference, which was attended by the General Secretary, Mr. C. M. Gallie, had been summoned specially to deal with the report on the Trade Union Act, which was made by the Irish Secretary, Mr. J. T. O'Farrall.

KILL ACID AND END CONSTIPATION

When your stomach is full of excess acid it simply cannot digest your food. Every mouthful sours—your whole meal lies in your stomach a fermenting, lumpy mass. You get wind, nausea, heartburn— CONSTIPATION. Constipation imprisons the poisons and waste matter inside your bowels, soaks your whole system with acid and starts the vicious circle of torture all over again.

But you can break free, if, first, you get rid of the acid.

For years doctors have been recommending the safe brand of antacid 'Milk of Magnesia' as a laxative because it has a double action. The acid in the system is killed. More important still, the bowel is gently relaxed and both cause and effect of constipation move gently out of the system. With the bowels regular and the stomach free from acid, stomach, liver and bowels have a chance to do their job.

So remember that constipation and bad digestion are both due to excess acid. As soon as there is the slightest hint of too much acid, take a spoonful of 'Milk of Magnesia.' Do it for several days and watch how appetite improves, how much more regular you are. And you will wonder how anything so bland and gentle can be so promptly effective. 'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips preparation of Magnesia. There is nothing else like it. Try it to-day; you'll be delighted. Obtainable everywhere, 1/3 and 2/6 (treble size), also in tablet form 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets, 6d., 1/-, 2/- and 3/6. Each tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of the liquid preparation.

Ballyhooley Fancied for Chief 'Chase at Dundalk

Train, Amiens Street, 11.30.

DUNDALK is one of the race meetings not affected by the rail curtailment. Visitors from Dublin can leave Amiens Street at 11.30 this morning, and have ample time to reach the course before racing starts. The Gap o' the North Steeplechase will bring some good class horses into opposition, but Drumbilla may run instead in the Wee County Steeplechase. September has to carry a 10lb. penalty, which may prove too much for him, and Ballyhooley, who has benefited by his recent races, may win.

Tote Double on Third & Fourth Races.

Silver Fizz is another horse with a choice of races, and should win whichever he is saddled for. Selections:—

Phœnix Park Races

Another Easy Score By Fair Crystal

BACKERS had a right royal time at the Phœnix Park yesterday, the best fancied horse winning in every instance, but in three of the races they had to lay odds on the favourites. Mr. D. Frame's good two-year-old, Fair Crystal, had another easy task in the La Touche Plate, this being his fifth score, and all were gained at Phœnix Park. He had only six opponents on this occasion, and, after indulging Miller with the lead for about half-way, he had only to be roused to draw out and win in easy style.

The Terenure Nursery was also won by an odds-on favourite, this being Mr. F. S. Myerscough's Ended, who conceded weight to all the other eight runners. It was the lightly-weighted Easter Island that offered strongest opposition, but M. Wing was always riding a confident race on the favourite, who had more in hand than the three-parts of a length by which he won would suggest.

Ceylon and Nighty Night, the best backed of the ten runners for the Templeogue Plate, were always the most prominent in the running until close home, when Nighty Night was unable to sustain the effort and dropped back, and Ceylon scored cleverly from Majideh.

The Place Money Plate, run for the first time at the meeting, attracted twelve runners, and provided the best finish. Legislation, the property of Mr. G. P. Gilpin, had been unlucky in a couple of races of late, but now, getting the better of a hard tussle with Mistress Tudor, he prevailed by a neck, and enabled Joe Canty to score a double event, he having previously ridden Ceylon to victory.

Mr. P. Sleator, generally regarded as the leading amateur rider, put another win to his credit by steering the Duke of St. Alban's Golden Eyrie to victory in the Trim Plate, and Poolfix had his turn in the Tara Plate. For a long way it looked as if Red Strife or Breffni Boy would win, but the apprentice, B. Duffy, timing his effort nicely, put in a strong finish on Mr. J. McLean's horse, and won a bit comfortably by half a length.

Newmarket Sales

Brother to Sun Castle Makes 8,200 Gns.

THE high lights of the evening session of yesterday's Newmarket sales were the batch of six yearlings from the National Stud, and the Hyperion—Castle Gay colt, sent up by Enid Countess of Chesterfield. Castle Gay colt is a full brother to Sun Castle, the St. Leger winner, and he realised the remarkable war-time price of 8,200 guineas, the purchaser being H.H. Aga Khan. The best of the National Stud lot was the colt by Cameronian—Clarence, half-brother to Sun Chariot. He was sold to Fred Darling for 4,000 guineas.

Earlier in the day six yearlings from the late Lord Furness's stud realised 8,950 guineas at Newmarket yesterday. Top price was paid for a filly by Nearco—Hallow, bought by the Beech House Stud for 3,000 guineas. Justinian, a colt by Mieuxce—Glenabatrick, from the Sezincote Stud, went to Mr. A. Smith for 1,400 guineas. Prices:—

SPORTING ITEMS

C. Richards has been engaged to ride Abbeville in the Cesarewitch. The card on the race will be called over at the Victoria Club, London, to-morrow at 2 o'clock.

The under-bidder for Carpet Slipper, sold for 14,000 guineas at Newmarket on Tuesday, was a representative of the Aga Khan, and not of the National Stud.

Lieut. Ian Kay Muir, 10th Hussars, of Lynes House, Bishops Cannings, Wilts, the racehorse owner and trainer, one of the best-known amateur riders under National Hunt Rules, who died on war service in May, 1940, left estate of the gross value of £11,268.

MALLOW MEETING

Owing to the curtailment in train service, the order of running for Mallow meeting on October 15 has been altered, and is:—3.0, Directors' Plate; 3.30, Raheen Plate; 4.0, Mallow Steeplechase; 4.30, Churchtown Plate; 5.0, Bandon Plate; 5.30, Kilmallock Plate.

Newmarket Programme

Confident Vote For Chateau Larose

MOST of the horses beaten by Sun Castle in the St. Leger at Manchester will contest the Newmarket St. Leger to-day. Chateau Larose was only beaten on the post, and is confidently expected to win this nice consolation prize. Dancing Time was a length behind, and Lawson will have another strong candidate in Devonian. Mazrin, who finished fourth, will also find plenty of support, and may be the danger to Chateau Larose.

The King's unbeaten filly, Sun Chariot, may find Watling Street too smart in the Middle Park Stakes. Ujiji is also unbeaten, and will make a race of it, but, if repeating the form shown when beaten a short head by Big Game, Watling Street should score. Selections:—

Autumn Handicap—Lovetin.
October Nursery—Tornado.
St. Leger—Chateau Larose (nap).
Middle Park Stakes—Watling Street.
Soham Handicap—Never Despair.
Alington Stakes—Constellate c.

Leinster Senior Cup Dates

Dates for the continuation of the second round and the semi-finals of the Leinster Senior Challenge Cup were arranged at last night's meeting of the Council as follow:—

Second Round—Wednesday, October 15th—University College v. Jacobs, 3.30 (referee, Mr. Behan). October 29th—Shelbourne v. Dundalk, 3.30 (referee to be agreed to by the clubs).

The meeting discussed a notice of motion to the effect that the minute dealing with the suspension of a former Bohemian player be rescinded "in order to allow his appeal for clemency to be considered." The motion was defeated by eleven votes to five.

Consideration was given to a suggestion that something should be done to raise funds for the Association, and, various means having been proposed, it was decided to appoint a sub-committee to go into the matter.

Greyhound Racing

Great Finishes at Shelbourne Park

There was some splendid racing at Shelbourne Park last night, and on four occasions the finishes could hardly have been closer, while backers had a successful time, five favourites coming home for them. In the Celtic Hurdle, Rare Rustic made a remarkable recovery after being shut out completely at the first bend. He gradually started to close the big gap between himself and Miller's Craft, and on the run in got in front, to get home by a neck. In the next race Roving Chevalier held such a long lead that he seemed impossible to catch, but Petrol Crux came up on the outside and passed him a few yards from the line, while Excuse Me Bob got second in the last stride.

In the Shelbourne Stake Tasty Dasher got well away, and held a clear lead approaching the last bend. Then Tiro drew level and had the inside position, but Tasty Dasher came again, to score by a very narrow margin. One favourite who was lucky to win was Baytown Prince, who seemed unlikely to catch What's the Name, when the latter came down at the last jump. Results:—

Russia's Struggle

The "gigantic operations" to which Herr Hitler referred in his speech in Berlin last Friday seem to be developing rapidly on the Russian front. It is evident that the German commanders have been instructed to make a supreme effort to force a military decision with the least possible delay, and that the Russian leaders have been ordered to prevent it. According to reports from Moscow, "not an inch" has become the watchword of the Russian armies. During the last few days the Germans have been hurling reserves into the line at a hitherto unprecedented rate. General von Bock, who seems to be in charge of the central sector, has been swinging his armies from point to point in an effort to find a vulnerable spot in the Soviet defences; but the element of surprise, so successful in the earlier stages of the campaign, no longer can be used with effect, and the Russian commanders seem to be in a position to anticipate every German move. On the other hand, there appears to be no doubt that the Germans have gained ground since the opening of their new offensive. The spear-heads of their attack apparently are at Briansk and Vyasma, two hundred and thirty and one hundred and forty miles from Moscow respectively; and the reports from Berlin claim that Panzer divisions are within one hundred and thirty miles of the Russian capital. According to statements in London, either the Russians have withdrawn their forces, in order to straighten their line, or else the Germans have driven two wedges in the front in their thrust towards Moscow. Evidently, there is no sign of a "major break-through," although the German reports speak of "a new succession of gigantic battles of annihilation." It is quite certain that the Germans are straining every nerve to achieve a spectacular victory. According to the Red Star, Herr Hitler's Panzer divisions have pierced the Russian defences at certain points, but they have lost 198 tanks in the process. The newspaper also speaks of "this hour of grave danger for our State." It would seem as if the Germans for the moment have abandoned all attempts to outflank Marshal Timoshenko's armies, and are following Napoleon's strategy by a direct attack via Vyasma against Moscow. The Berlin bulletins report the encirclement near the Sea of Asov of six or seven Russian divisions, which are facing "immediate annihilation," and there also is talk of minor successes in the Leningrad sector. The brunt of the fighting, however, is being borne by the armies in the centre, where the Russians have been concentrating for some time past on their defence in depth.

According to all the military experts, Marshal Timoshenko has taken the fullest advantage of the terrain on this sector of the front to strengthen his defences, and, although the Germans, by sheer weight of metal, may have made imposing advances during the last week, their successes have been gained at an appalling cost. Broadcasters from Berlin declare that Moscow's fall is merely a matter of time: in view of recent developments it will be "automatic." There is no reason to doubt the substantial accuracy of the German claims. The question is: is the game worth the candle? From the very outset of the campaign against Russia it has been obvious that Germany has a superior organisation, that her military commanders are in a position at any given moment to establish a local superiority in numbers and weight of material, and that the German High Command is operating according to a well-devised plan, whereas, in the nature of things, the Russians are being forced to improvise their plans of defence. From the very beginning the Allies have been prepared for the capture of Leningrad and even Moscow, in addition to Kiev and Odessa; and there can be few military experts outside Russia who ever believed that the Red armies would have been able to stand up against Germany's mechanised forces for such a long time. In a war of this kind territorial gains, although important, are not likely to be decisive. What matters is the extent of the attackers' losses. It never must be forgotten that the Russian campaign, spectacular as it undoubtedly has been, and is likely to be in the future, is, after all, merely a kind of "side-show." For some time after the outbreak of war the British were prepared not only for Russia's neutrality, but even for the Soviets' active support of the German cause. From their point of view, therefore, the battle in Russia, as Mr. Winston Churchill has said, is only part of the general "delaying campaign" which is being waged against the Germans. The longer the Russians can hold out, and the greater the losses that they can inflict on the invaders, the less chance there will be of an early invasion of Great Britain, and the stronger the British defences are likely to become. It is even possible, if British and American supplies reach Russia in time, that the Soviet armies may be able to hold out for an almost indefinite period. Russia's three Marshals—Voroshilov, Timoshenko and Budyenny—have proved themselves the equals even of Germany's most brilliant generals. They have surprised the world by the quality of their military leadership, to which even the Germans have paid the highest tribute.

My Lady's Nicotine

It is said that woman's interest in tobacco first was marked one hundred years ago, and that the first cigarette—it may have been a cheroot—to be seen between a woman's fingers was in a Leech drawing in Punch in 1841. That, incidentally, was the year in which Punch was born. As recently as 1914 it was exceptional for a woman to smoke in public in these islands, though it was reported that in foreign countries, where the sense of what was right and proper was not so exact, bold hussies actually had been known to light cigarettes in the foyers of theatres. The last war changed all that. Women were emancipated, delivered from their bondage, freed from the legal and legislative manacles that prevented them from doing what they wished. Dull minds thought that all they had been given was the vote; actually they were permitted to exchange delightful, lovable, fluttering little hearts for souls of brass. They cut their hair, shortened their skirts, painted their lips and paraded the summer beaches in the snappiest of bathing costumes. The more humble of them abandoned their bottles of stout, the more careful their small ports, and from cocktails they quickly progressed to more expensive potations, such as whiskey and soda, gin and tonic, and even "horses' necks." Worst of all, they smoked in public, in private, and the park. Pumice stone found its way to their dressing-tables and their wash-hand basins. Yet, only the best of them got as far as cigars and pipes. Chocolates, said the puffing pretty ones, ruined their figures, and, as they must do something, they smoked; then they ate chocolates when they got short of breath. It was an interesting phase. It is time that it ended. The last war provided an excuse for an extravagant extension of woman's liberty, which has been tritely described as another name for license. Another war has provided an excuse for the endorsement and suspension of that license. There are scarcely sufficient cigarettes available to-day for the men who want them and need them and love them, as the song used almost to express it. The woman who smokes has become a menace to man's peace. How can football coupons be completed with all the care necessary if there is not a cigarette in the house to calm the nerves of the struggling student of form? It is excellent discipline to give up something, and it is prudent to give up something that patently is unhealthy. It is obvious what women should give up.

Goodwill Meals

The Goodwill Restaurant, Pearse street, has made a new departure in the communal feeding line; for it is now possible to buy a pint of stew—and, by all accounts, very good stew—for the price of fourpence. We welcome this new service for two reasons. In the first place, the fourpenny pint of stew is not intended for consumption on the premises, and the fact that consumers must take it away in their own containers and eat it in their homes should tend to preserve family ties and take away a great deal of the "communal" aspect of the scheme. In the second place, while the white-collar classes, and most of those who of necessity must have their luncheon in town, can afford to pay ninepence for a meal, there are hundreds of people in less fortunate circumstances who would welcome the opportunity to obtain a pint of stew for fourpence. It may be suggested that fourpence is a trifle too high for a pint of stew when many of the other communal kitchens can supply the same amount of a similar stew for prices varying from twopence to threepence; but it must be remembered that, whereas the other communal feeding services exist mainly on voluntary service, the Guild of Goodwill Restaurant staff is paid according to trade union regulations. It is gratifying to see that even without the aid of voluntary assistance, the Goodwill Restaurant can produce substantial food at so low a cost; before the scheme can become a success, however, it will be necessary to build a series of the restaurants all over town, for one cannot expect a woman from Drumcondra to travel all the way from her house to Pearse street and back in order to collect a pint or two of stew. The restaurant for the benefit of those who wish to eat their meal on the premises and can afford to pay ninepence for it, seems to be proving a great success; we read that over two thousand people had lunch on Monday last. It is to be hoped that this service is being used by the right people; by those who cannot very well afford to pay more than ninepence for their lunch, rather than by those in search of a new experience or by those who could afford to buy luncheon in an ordinary restaurant, but prefer to economise in the matter of food, but, whoever consumes the food, the fact that it can be produced, and produced commercially, at so low a price, augurs well for the poor of the city in the coming trials.

THE QUEEN VICTORIA PORTRAIT

The portrait of Queen Victoria, which the former Lord Mayor of Dublin (Mrs. T. Clarke) had removed from its place in the Mansion House, has been stored since in the Municipal Art Gallery, Charlemont House, and will likely remain there until the end of the war. It was mentioned in our London Letter of Monday last that the officials of the London Office of the Agent General for Victoria were wondering what was the attitude of the Dublin Corporation towards the anxiety of an Australian collector to buy the portrait for the Melbourne Art Gallery. The City Manager stated yesterday that no consideration of the sale of the portrait could be entertained before the end of the war.

The portrait was painted by Stephen Catterson Smith, a former President of the Royal Hibernian Academy, and had hung in the Mansion House for eighty-six years.

THREE POLICEMEN SHOT DEAD

A police sergeant and two constables were shot dead and a third constable seriously injured yesterday near Hokitika, Westland, says a Reuter telegram from Wellington, New Zealand.

A constable had received a hostile reception earlier in the day when serving a writ.

A search is now being made in the bush for a man—a noted rifle shot—who is believed to be armed.

THE GOODWILL RESTAURANT

CUSTOMERS STEADILY INCREASING

Why do more people dine out on certain days of the week than on others? The question is suggested by the fact that at the Good-will Restaurant, Pearse street, it has now become recognised after three weeks' experience that there is always a bigger rush on Thursdays than on other days. Another thing discovered is that Dublin people, save on Fridays, are not keen on fish.

There is a gradual increase in the numbers of artisans and workmen who are taking advantage of the service. Many 'bus drivers and conductors are visiting the restaurant, and bringing tradesmen with them.

As one of the staff said to an Irish Times reporter: "These are really a very nice lot to serve. They come in, get their meal, and away, without the least bit of trouble at all. We get, too, a big number of office workers and shop assistants. There are many black-coated workers in shops and offices, who, because of their jobs, have to keep up a good appearance, and to do so have often to go without a square mid-day meal. These are people to whom the Good-will Restaurant will be doing a great service in providing a cheap sustaining meal."

The "take-away service" is also showing steady growth. More than five hundred pints of rich stew were bought and taken away yesterday. The department opens at noon every day, and remains open until about four o'clock. There have been many inquiries about getting supplies to take away later in the evening. In hundreds of working-class homes the main meal is not taken until the husband or head of the family comes in from work in the evening. The management of the Good-will Restaurant are considering this aspect, and are prepared, if the demand and inquiries justify it, to have the "take-away" section open from, say, four o'clock until about half-past five, to facilitate those who would like to avail themselves of the service for their evening meal. As with the food served in the restaurant, the idea is to serve a differently flavoured stew every day. The meat will vary from day to day, and so also will the vegetables. In that way change will be provided.

LONDON LETTER

50 FLEET STREET, LONDON.
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

MR. A. P. RYAN, the Government's adviser to the B.B.C. on home affairs, is to assume even more responsible duties in the drastic changes in the British broadcasting direction now being completed. The B.B.C. will continue to be responsible for variety, drama, music, and non-political talks, but the Ministry of Information and the Foreign Office are to direct all other material, working through the Committee of Political Warfare. Mr. Ryan, an Anglo-Irish newspaperman, held a commission in the Royal Field Artillery at the end of the last war. A Scholar of Balliol, he was a practical newspaperman for some years as the very successful publicity manager of the Gas Light and Coke Company. He was appointed Assistant Controller of Public Relations at the B.B.C. five years ago. Sir Cecil Graves, Deputy Director-General, is reported to be giving up that position. Grandson of a former Bishop of Limerick, Dr. Charles Graves, he is nephew of the late Dr. Alfred Percival Graves, a President of the Irish Literary Society.

Wings Over Malta

Miss Kathleen Burke, M.A., a native of Tipperary, who has just returned from Malta, where she is a Government school teacher, gave a first-hand account to-day of conditions on the island, which had had 150 heavy air raids and 350 other visits. Miss Burke praises the work of the Acting-Governor, General Sir William Dobbie, who has inspired the quarter of a million inhabitants with confidence since the beginning of the war. His voice is regularly heard on the island's radio, and the Maltese rate him next to Mr. Churchill as a broadcaster. Alerts have by now become a normal part of daily life. When Miss Burke's school was hit by a bomb one night the children were waiting on the doorstep next morning, as usual, to be admitted. Bathers from the rocks at Fort Ghadira are as numerous as ever, and many places evacuated in the early days have been re-occupied, thanks to the R.A.F. defence, which Miss Burke says has the situation well in hand. Most-fought-for island in the world's history, Malta has known at too frequent intervals 3,500 years of war.

Towns Below Ground

With the virtual approach of winter and the feeling that London's five months' immunity from air raids may not continue, the shelters are again being filled to capacity. The city's best equipped and largest deep shelter, consisting of two long tubes, will be completed next week. The first 500 of its 5,000 places are already occupied. London County Council technical educational classes are held nightly in many subjects, and other amenities include a theatre and cinema, a welfare hall, and a small isolation hospital. The record for capacity, however, is held by "The Deep,' a quarter of a mile long disused tunnel in South London. Shelterers there averaged 8,000 last winter, but the actual capacity in emergencies is 12,000.

City's Child Evacuees

What continues to be one of the most difficult problems of the war is the trek back of children from evacuation areas to London. From comparative safety to actual danger 2,000 children are being brought back each week. The number is increasing, and greatly exceeds the outflow to reception areas. There are, in fact, more children now in London than at any time since September of last year, when the Luftwaffe began to raid the metropolis. To-day some 160,000 children are in the L.C.C. area. The only periods during which the flow of returning evacuees halted was last April and May, when heavy raids were renewed. There is in the trek back a continual conflict on the part of the parents between emotion and reason.

Mr. McGrath's Purchase

The figure of 14,000 guineas paid by Mr. Joseph McGrath for the brood mare, Carpet Slipper, has never before been approached in war-time for a thoroughbred. Nearly everybody at Newmarket was to-day talking about the purchase.

A Dublin Press "Scoop"

Serjeant A. M. Sullivan, K.C., recalled to-day how fifty years ago, as editor of the Dublin Evening Press, he got a "scoop" with the exclusive news of the death of Parnell.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

That Mr. Lom

A friend reminds me that, contrary to a reviewer's impression, there are several books in English on life in an English internment camp.

But it is true that "Never Mind, Mr. Lom," is the first work to be published on English internment camps in the present war. Under my friend's prompting I remember at least two books by Irishmen on experiences in internment in England in the war of 1914-1918, and, if they would, several present and past Ministers of State and men prominent in different lines could write several others.

One of the Irish books I refer to was written from a more or less military angle. This was "With the Irish in Frongoch," by Mr. W. J. Brennan Whitmore Mr. Whitmore is a County Wexford man, and has been journalist, printer, insurgent in Dublin in Easter Week, officer in the Irish Free State's first Army, and prolific newspaper controversialist. Frongoch, I may tell younger readers, was "a place of internment" in North Wales to which some 2,000 Irishmen were relegated in 1916. German civilians had preceded them there.

Other "Gaol" Books

Technically, more "literary" was the first of two slim volumes, "A Chronicle of Jails," by the talented, highly individualist, somewhat peculiar Darrell Figgis. This was actually written by Figgis during his internment with other distinguished Irishmen in Reading Gaol up to Christmas, 1916. Figgis was a most industrious and painstaking writer, and his "Chronicle" might have ranked with John Mitchel's "Jail Journal" and Silvio Pellico's "Le Mei Prigioni" if Figgis could have brought himself at that time to write in the style he developed later in "The Return of the Hero."

Pellico has been translated more than once from Italian into English. But for the life of us, neither my friend nor I could recall his name when we wanted to recommend his book a couple of years ago to a famous Irish novelist and playwright.

Dublin's Livery Stables

Lying between the Pro-Cathedral and Findlater's Corner there are interesting survivals of the days when "horse-power" appeared between the shafts of dog-carts and pony-traps.

From a group of livery stables—most famous of which were those of "Johnnie Rush"—the citizen on pleasure bent, and willing to take equestrian risks, could choose his "mount" or vehicle for a gallop in the Fifteen Acres, or a trip with his family to the Strawberry Beds. For modest considerations of two or three half-crowns—a friend tells me—a really respectable-looking turnout could be chartered for an afternoon's outing.

Many—he says—were the adventures of those days. The epithets of Rush and his confrères when the steed came back with "broken" knees were quite unfit for print! Heaven help the transgressing "whip" who asked for another chance!

But there—facing the rear of the new "Gresham" and other modern piles of buildings—remain many of the old stalls and loose boxes of my friend's adventures and recollections. He suggests that the Old Dublin Society might pay them a visit!

A Play That Failed

A recent production of "Journey's End," by R. C. Sherriff, which I saw produced by an all-Army cast in Bantry, is further evidence of the interest which serious drama is now rousing in the country. This difficult and tragic play was acted quite well, and would have been a success if care had been taken to provide suitable music in the intervals.

Unfortunately, there was a complete lack of synchronisation between the music and the play. It had been arranged that a dance would follow the play, and the local dance band had their own idea of what kind of music to play between the acts. In consequence, we had scenes of war-time agony depicted on the stage, and as soon as the curtain descended the orchestra played "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," and other popular tunes, while the audience sang and drummed with their feet.

All the evening the cast strove to create a mood of tragedy, but the orchestra fought this with swing tunes of careless abandon. The orchestra won, as they were bound to, and I was sorry to see the actors' efforts wasted. I am surprised that the band leader himself could not see how out of place his music was.

The whole performance might have been arranged to demonstrate the truth of Lennox Robinson's contention in his recent lectures—that a play should be a unity of all the factors in the theatre to produce an harmonious and desired result.

Greyhound Racing

I have been living in Sandymount for several years, writes a correspondent, and during that time I have travelled to and from the city about four times every day and twice every night. Each time I travelled, I travelled either by the tram—or, in the last year or so, the double-decker.

As often as not when I passed in the evenings, greyhound racing was in progress, and one would imagine that the laws of average allowed me to witness at least one race from the vantage point of the top of the 'bus. But for some peculiar reason I never saw so much as a hare on the course. Bookies there were in plenty, and spectators in thousands, but not so much as one greyhound or hare.

Perhaps, the Tramway Company is in league with the proprietors, and has agreed to see that no tram or 'bus passes the park while racing is in progress. Whatever the reason, it seems to work like a charm.

QUIDNUNC.

GENERAL SIR JOHN DILL MARRIED

General Sir John Dill, Chief of the British Imperial General Staff, was married yesterday in London, and is taking two days' leave for his honeymoon. His bride was Mrs. Nancy Isabelle Furlong, widow of Brigadier Dennis Furlong, who died in action in September of last year. Sir John's first wife died last December.

Sir John Dill is aged 59, and his bride is 35.

Mr. John de Guerin Dill was best man, and signed the register with Harold Vincent Spencer Charrington, and the Rev. Charles Douglas Symons, Chaplain-General to the Forces, who had conducted the ceremony.

Among the seventy or eighty guests were Mr. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, Captain Margesson, Secretary for War Sir Edward Grigg, his Parliamentary Under-Secretary; Lord Reith, and several of Sir John's colleagues, both civil and military, at the War Office.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL PRODUCTION

When the curtain comes down for the last time on the record-breaking "Hullabaloo," which has played for thirteen weeks, it will herald a better new production. Entitled "Applesauce," the new show, which begins on Sunday next, should provide many moments of excellent entertainment. A notable feature is the number of new stars, new novelties, and new features. Co-starring is Dublin's Peggy Dell, with Mike Nolan, Ireland's newest comedian. John Lynskey and Josephine O'Hagan give selections of songs; while also taking part are the popular Knaves of Rhythm. Alban Chambers has been specially engaged as guest organist. New features include "Let's Have a Sing," conducted by Peggy Dell, and a novel Question Time conducted by J. Eric Henry. Another spectacular feature is "The Musical Mirror," presented by Jimmy Campbell and the Theatre Royal Orchestra.

IRISH WILLS

Mr. Albert E. Wood, K.C., late of Albany, Blackrock, a well-known member of the Irish Bar, formerly of 14 Herbert street, Dublin, left estate in Eire valued at £3,683.

MR. MORRISON'S APPEAL TO U.S.A.

CALL FOR MIGHTIEST EFFORT

Mr. Herbert Morrison, British Home Secretary and Minister of Home Security, broadcasting last night, told the people of the United States that the time had gone by when we in Britain could thank them for their aid as though it were no more than a friendly and powerful gesture. We accepted it still with heartfelt thanks, as one partner accepted the aid of another in the thick of a fight. "For you are in this fight, and you are in it for your own sakes, as well as for the rest of the world's," he said. After Dunkirk, Britain was almost defenceless in important respects against invasion on land, but no one thought of defeat, and to-day there was a degree of national unity "as nearly absolute as anything human can be."

It was as well for the cause of freedom that Britain was thus unified, for she had grim times ahead. "We know," he said, "that Hitler's course is not yet run, and that bitter trial will be our lot until it is." Every month increased the prospect that it would, before its end, engulf every continent in its tide of misery.

"In Eastern Europe the new front calls ever more insistently for the fullest support that you and we can give. The German resources mount. Our arms production and yours combined is still short of their vast reserves and enormous output, and we have much past leeway to make up. Ours can still make some progress, but its peak is not far off. We know you understand that the great increase that is needed must come from the New World.

"We know in Britain that everything for which you and the other working people of the world have striven hangs upon the issue of this struggle, and we sometimes wonder whether the full horror of the menace which hangs over the world is yet clearly apparent to you. We see hope only in one thing—the resolute determination of free men to stand up and defend, while they have life, those things that give life its meaning. Nazi-ism must be destroyed. Nothing less than the mightiest effort America's industry can put forth will destroy it."

By twelve votes to ten, Drogheda Corporation defeated a motion by the Mayor (Alderman T. LIVESTOCK TRADE AND RAIL SERVICES

MARKETING SYSTEM CRITICISED

The only bright spot in the train service position was that the goods trains had not been interfered with, said Mr. T. W. Molloy, vice-chairman of the Irish Livestock Exporters' and Traders' Association, when he presided at last night's meeting of the Committee of the Association in Prosperity Chambers, Upper O'Connell street, Dublin.

So far as the cattle trade was concerned, the position in regard to train services was a national calamity. It now took nearly three days to do a fair in the South or West of Ireland.

In relation to the issuing of licences for the movement of cattle a letter was received from the Department of Agriculture stating that any change in the existing arrangements for the issuing of licences was not proposed at present.

Mr. C. Crowley said that the manner in which the licences were allocated was a scandal.

The Secretary was directed to take the matter up with the Department and the Cattle Salesmasters' Association.

Mr. Leo Ferris criticised the present system of marketing stock, and said that a producer sending his stock had at present to pay at least an extra £1 per head expenses. He said that he knew of cases where cattle were put on rail on Wednesday, but did not arrive in Dublin until Friday. Cattle were now a whole week in transit to England, and during that time their value deteriorated considerably.

Mr. Molloy and Mr. Crowley expressed satisfaction at the position in regard to foot-and-mouth disease, and hoped that it would continue.

SMUGGLING CHARGES

FINES AMOUNT TO £3,263

During the hearing of smuggling charges at Castleblayney Court yesterday, District Justice Goff imposed fines totalling £3,263. Most of the prosecutions were for smuggling sugar and other goods into Northern Ireland, but one defendant was fined £100 for attempting to smuggle white loaves into Eire.

Samuel Hanna, Tullycollive; Francis Tomany, Crossneenagh, and Bernard Hughes, Carnagh, were each fined £100 on each of two charges for the exportation of onions in October, 1940—a total of £600.

Samuel Hanna, Tullycollive, defendant in previous case, and Patrick Rooney, Tullyhatna, were each fined £492 for bringing sugar to a place for exportation on March 24—a total of £984.

Francis and John McGuigan, Tullyrahan, were each fined £100 on each of two charges for bringing to a place for exportation a quantity of oats—a total of £400.

Charles James Mallon, Victoria street, Keady, was fined £100 for bringing to a place for exportation a quantity of chocolates.

Thomas J. Hughes, Tullintrot, was fined £354 in respect of three tons of sugar on February 26.

Fines of £100 each for bringing goods to a place for exportation were imposed on the following:—James McVeigh, Irish street, Armagh; James Traynor, Lemgare; Andrew Martin, Tullythisney; Samuel Sinclair, Drumlack South; Patrick Rooney, Tullyhatna (who had already been fined £492); James McMahon, Annagart; James P. Woods, Oram; John Semple, Skerrymore; Bernard Hughes, Drumacon; Wm. Hill, Tattincla; D. Duffy, Castleblayney.

The Justice recommended the Revenue Commissioners to reduce some of the fines. He allowed time in the case of those with property in Eire so that they could appeal for reduction, but said those from outside the State must remain in custody till the fine or a reduced amount was paid.

Following telephone communication with the Revenue Commissioners, the solicitors for Hughes, Tomany and Mallon intimated that the Commissioners were agreeable to take reduced amounts, which were paid into court by guaranteed cheques.

John M. Daly, Rathkeeland, Crossmaglen, was charged with assaulting Customs Officer P. B. P. Murphy and with importing white bread.

Defendant was fined £100 on the smuggling charge and £5 on the charge of assault.

Major-General V. V. Pope, Brigadier H. E. Russell and Colonel E. S. Unwin were killed in a flying accident in the Middle East on October 5, says the Press Association.

CORK SHOOTING

INQUEST ON CORPORAL

A verdict that death was due to laceration of the brain caused by a shot, self-inflicted while temporarily insane, due to worry, was returned at the inquest in Cork yesterday on Corporal James Fitzsimons (aged 25), unmarried, who was found dead in a storeroom at Collins Barracks, Cork, last Sunday night with a bullet wound in the head and a Service revolver lying under him. Deputy-Coroner Joseph McCabe, solicitor, conducted the inquest.

GREAT SOCIAL ADVENTURE

INFLUENCE OF IRISH PIONEERS

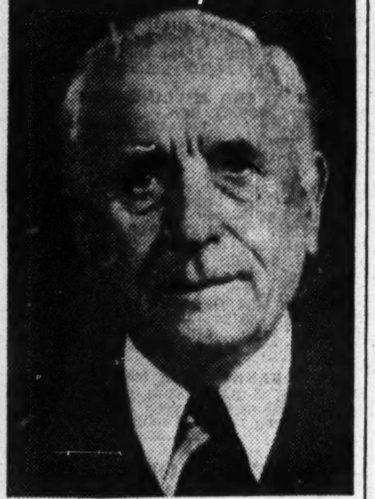
Generous tribute to the part played by the Irish Agricultural Organisation Society as the pioneer of rural co-operation in the Anglo-Saxon world was paid by Dr. W. G. S. Adams, C.H., Warden of All Souls College, Oxford, when he delivered the "Father Finlay Lecture," at University College, Dublin, yesterday afternoon, before a distinguished audience.

He prefaced his lecture (which was titled "Social Adventure in Ireland") by a warm reference to Father Finlay, speaking as one who knew him from afar, but who felt the spell of that personality which was so rich and human, virile, and yet gentle; warm, and yet aloof—one of those characters which somehow printed themselves on the mind and held the affection.

THE C.D.B.

Looking back fifty years, said the lecturer, they were conscious of significant stirrings in social thought in Ireland. Irishmen were being stirred by the need of a strengthening of the social and economic life of the community, and they saw in the last decade of the nineteenth century many important developments. First of these was the establishment in 1891 of the Congested Districts Board, which pioneered the way for developments not only in Ireland, but in other countries. Here was the first attempt to organise help for the most distressed part of the rural community. Even in recent years they saw measures for dealing with special areas in Great Britain which could trace direct relationship to the Irish experiment.

The second step was the founding of the Irish Agricultural Organisation Society, a voluntary movement without State aid, which again united men of different creeds, and, what was no less significant, men from the North and South of Ireland, from all the provinces, in a common self-help movement to improve the condition of Irish agriculture and, above all, of the small farmers. The I.A.O.S. was the pioneer of rural co-operation in the Anglo-Saxon world. Its influence had been far-reaching, not only in Great Britain, but in the great commonwealth of the United States of America and in every one of the British overseas Dominions. It had also been felt in lands like India and China, where ten years ago he had been asked to explain the Irish experiment in co-operative agriculture and the work of that great pioneer, Sir Horace Plunket, with his three "betters" — better farming, better business, better living. When Theodore Roosevelt took office it was to Plunket that he turned for his slogan of the "three betters."



Professor W. G. S. Adams,

RECESS COMMITTEE

The Recess Committee of 1896 was a rapid sequel to the I.A.O.S., and here again they had men of all creeds, political and religious, sitting in council and thinking out a practical policy of rural betterment, particularly how to supplement the work of the voluntary co-operative organisation by State assistance in the technical improvement of agriculture. There followed the setting up of the Irish Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, which held first place, and stood worthy to be compared with the great departments of agriculture, the Federal and State Departments of the United States. It was an experiment in what it was now fashionable to call functional democracy.

The three figures which stood out in those distant years were Horace Plunket, George Russell and Father Finlay. There they were, these three, each greater and fuller because of their fellowship together in a great social adventure.

Dr. A. W. Conway, President of University College, Dublin, presided, and, on behalf of the audience, tendered a warm vote of thanks to Dr. Adams for coming to deliver this lecture in such difficult times.

DUBLIN AS PARNELL KNEW IT

FIFTY YEARS' ADVANCES

(By CIVIS.)

Since that Sunday when Dublin, in relentless downpours of rain, stood to attention as "the Chief's cortège passed from the City Hall to Glasnevin, the drama of happenings abroad and at home has gone far to dim, and to blot out, visions of Dublin as it was fifty years ago. But now that Captain Harrison and other speakers and writers refresh our memories, and recreate the atmosphere and surroundings of the days when Dublin was the focus point of world interest, those visions—magnified or diminished by the passage of time—again appear on the screen of memory. Reviving thoughts of the tragic conflicts and passions which then dominated the minds of politically minded citizens, they drive many of us to ruminate on the civic and social backgrounds of the great political drama. What, we ask ourselves, was Dublin like as Parnell last saw it from his platform outside the Rotunda or from his window in Morrison's Hotel. In what respect is it the same city? In what manner has it changed? Does anything remain of the civic psychology and outlook of fifty years ago, when the writer—as a youth of seventeen—stood and wondered what next would happen?

CONDITIONS IN 1891

Let us take a hurried glance at the civic any physical settings of the political drama, and then try to picture a few of their later developments. Let us try to reconstruct the citizen's life as it then was when few suburban homes knew the luxury of a bathroom; when thousands of middle-class families were content with occasional clearances of open sewers and middens and ashpits; when residents on the quaysides had to keep their windows shut as the only protection from a pestiferous Liffey; when the darkness of street and homestead was relieved by the dim and flickering gas jet; when horse-hauled tramcars took a full-half-hour to reach O'Connell Bridge from Terenure; when a mail train journey to Belfast meant more than five hours and three changes of locomotive, and when the paddle-propelled steam-packet took most of a day to reach Merseyside.

Is it possible for us to visualise the poorer citizen's life before any serious effort was made to give effect to Public Health Acts and sanitary by-laws; before newspapers or philanthropists had discovered the appalling death rates and pestilent evils of slum tenement life, and before the forces of organised labour arrived to do battle for the wage-earner against the employer, whose only thought and purpose was to buy in the cheapest market?

RECREATION

If we direct our thoughts to the conditions in what may be described as fields of recreation and entertainment—what were they fifty years ago? The Phœnix Park was there—an hour's journey from Ringsend or Ranelagh. Stephen's Green was the city's only central playground. Seaside resorts, now within a quarter of an hour's 'bus ride, lay remote from the crowded city. Two theatres and two music halls limited the citizens' opportunities for indoor entertainment. One thriving university catered for certain needs, while public libraries and technical schools had yet to come to the rescue of working-class families in need of educational development.

The "penny farthing" cycle and solid rubber tyre had just made their appearance, but only could be enjoyed by the favoured few. Streets paved with cobble-stones, and wheels shod with iron tyres, made driving an adventure, and—in many residential streets—meant sleepless nights.

Driven to seek relief from poverty and its resultant illnesses, the only resorts of the mass of citizens were to the ministrations of a niggardly Board of Poor Law Commissioners in control of bleak workhouses, to certain ill-equipped voluntary hospitals, or to dispensations of charity.

The Corporation was the preserve of privileged classes, and its services were bounded by the city's canal banks. The affairs of seven or eight suburban areas were controlled by assemblies of Commissioners, elected by a severely restricted franchise and mainly concerned to preserve the privileges of class and moneyed interests.

Let the picture—imperfect and incomplete as it is—stand at that, and let us glance at a few of the events and developments which followed the Parnell era, and produced Dublin as we know it to-day.

CHANGES AND ADVANCES

Taking, first, the changes in what may broadly be described as facilities for communication and travel, what do we find? The emergence of the telephone, with its now indispensable and almost world-wide personal contacts. The 'bus, to supersede an electric tramway service which was undreamt of in Parnell's days, and to bring city and remote countryside into new and intimate relationships. Petrol driven vehicles to cover a hundred miles, where ten overstrained the resources of the horse. Highways, with even and dustless surfaces, instead of boulder-strewn and pot-holed roads. Speed, refreshment facilities, and steam heating on railways, where the foot-warmer and lunch basket were the luxuries of tardy travel fifty years ago.

Public health advances in their manifold manifestations—what of them? Main drainage systems and water borne sewage outlets, instead of the midden, the cesspool and the open Liffey sewer. Domestic refuse no longer consigned to the vermin-infested ashpit. Gravity water supplies, instead of visits to the public pump. Bathrooms, now a recognised feature of housing schemes for wage-earners' families. The electric switch to the household's lamps and cooking appliances instead of the box of matches and dim gas jet. Elsewhere the incandescent gas mantle and automatically controlled stove, instead of the early morning's struggle with the kitchen firegrate. These and other advances, not only ministering to our comfort and convenience, but combining to make long-delayed and welcome inroads on Dublin's high death-rate records! Most notable, perhaps, of the advances made against disease and untimely deaths—the removal of many thousands of families from deadly slum environment to new and healthy city and suburban dwellings.

NEW RECREATIONS

Then, what of recreation and entertainment? At least a score of new parks and playgrounds have replaced sloblands and rubbish dumps. Seaside resorts have been brought within reach of the poorest families. The Abbey and Gate theatres have brought new life to the stage, and the cinema caters daily for its many thousands of patrons. For many thousands of others "wireless" opens up new horizons and recreations.

In fields of mental development and of preparation for life's duties public libraries and technical schools fill gaps which were but vaguely discerned by Parnell's contemporaries; and the National University has arisen to crown the educational efforts of his colleagues.

What can be said of other outstanding factors which have helped to transform Dublin's social and economic life since Parnell was laid to rest? What of old-age pensions, of insurances against unemployment and ill-health, of new schools and clinics, of means to combat the scourges of tubercular and other infectious diseases, and of the hundred and one voluntary and contributory forces that now converge to lay even broader foundations for a new civic order?

Time alone can give the answers. Meanwhile, it can at least be said that the achievements of the last fifty years should give this generation confidence with which to drive home the attack on the many evils and disorders which yet remain to darken and depress the lives of their fellow-citizens. Parnell declared that no man should dare to set a limit to the forward march of a nation. Who dares to fix the limits of Dublin's advance?

CAPTAIN HARRISON ON PARNELL

PROTEST AGAINST LAWLESS FORCE

"The policy of the present Government is the policy of Ireland, and we must accept it with loyalty. There may be things that we dislike; if there are, there are legitimate and constitutional ways of altering them, but if there be any who, by lawless force, would try to destroy the Government or thwart its policy, they are traitors to Ireland."

This declaration by Captain Henry Harrison, personal friend of Parnell, member of the Irish Nationalist Party under his leadership, and only survivor of "Committee Room 15," speaking on Charles Stewart Parnell, in the Gresham Hotel last night, was loudly applauded.

"If there be any," said Captain Harrison, "who by the introduction of external forces strive to bend that policy to other purposes, then they are unworthy and unpatriotic Irishmen. The world is at war, and this is a very small nation, whose future welfare lies entirely in national unity and national concentration, in standing by the national flag and the legitimate Government. Let us, in following Parnell's lead, prove ourselves worthy inheritors and steadfast upholders of Ireland's national right."

LYING TALES

Speaking of Parnell, Captain Harrison claimed that Ireland was entitled to have its history truly written. Parnell, he said, had broken the law—the marriage law—but in all other respects his honour was untouched and inviolate. "The lies that have been told about Parnell will take a long time to scotch," he said, "but in justice to the dead, and to those who stood by him to the end, it should be stated that the vital and fundamental issue was that Parnell took his stand for the cause of Irish independence from British control or interference in the matter of Irish leadership." The lies got a long start, and it suited certain powerful interests that they should be confirmed and perpetuated. But the truth was catching up, and already the truth publicly had been accepted by authoritative writers in Britain. The lying tales, the perjuries about Parnell, made all the difference in the public view in Britain, and the British view did much to affect the Irish view. His case was indistinguishable from other cases in the English upper classes; yet no word was said of them in retaliation for the frightful storm of abuse that broke over Parnell's head.

GREATEST SERVICE TO IRELAND

Speaking of Parnell's work, he said that all through the agrarian campaigns he never lost sight of his political goal—the independent nationhood of Ireland. He thought little of Parliamentarianism; he thought that the association with Westminster sooner or later would weaken the fibre of any Irish body. He adopted Parliamentarianism as a temporary expedient, as a method for a brief campaign which should be short and decisive. And he was very near, indeed, to bringing it off. His greatest service to Ireland was the creation of a proud consciousness of nationality, and to the very end he was absolutely confident of eventual victory.

Captain Harrison expressed the hope that among the writers of the younger generation there would be some, who, in dealing with the Parnell period, would insist on the truth always being kept to the fore.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman P. S. Doyle, T.D.), who presided, said that Parnell's aim to root the people in the soil had been achieved.

On the proposition of The O'Mahony seconded by Mr. L. Fitzpatrick, a vote of thanks was extended to Captain Harrison.

The No. 1 Army Band played a selection of Irish airs before and after the lecture.

In conjunction with the Dublin-Wicklowmen's Association, a wreath made of oak leaves from a tree planted by Parnell in Killorglin will be placed on the grave in Glasnevin by The O'Mahony.

RETIREMENT OF MR. L. D. NARRAMORE

The resignation is announced to-day of Mr. Loudon Douglas Narramore, who has been for ten years manager of the Hotels and Catering Department of the Great Northern Railway Company, Ltd.

Mr. Narramore came to the Company on his arrival in Ireland in 1931 as manager of the Bundoran Hotel. From there he went to the position from which he resigns to-day, where he has been responsible for the entire hotels and catering system of the company. Popular with everyone, his absence will be regretted by many of his colleague and friends.

Commencing his education as a hotelier at the Ecole Professionale, Lausanne, Mr. Narramore there graduated through the various steps of the business. In the Paris Ritz, beginning in the kitchens, he obtained practical experience of direct contact with the fundamentals of catering. From there he went to Aix-les-Bains, to the Bernascon, where Stanley Baldwin frequently stayed.

His three subsequent moves were to the newly-opened Park Lane Hotel, London, to Claridge's, and from there to the managership of the Ruben's Hotel, near Buckingham Palace, where he was known, at the age of 25, as the youngest hotel manager in London.

OSSORY SYNOD

Whether we willed it or not, said the Right Rev. Dr. Phair, Bishop of Ossory, at the Diocesan Synod of Ossory in Kilkenny on Tuesday, we were bound up with the life of the world, and not least with that country which lies across the Channel. The coming winter would bring hardship and distress to many people, and especially to the poor. He hoped, therefore, that Christian charity would become a practical reality.

Not the least important of the things that the present time should teach was the meaning of patriotism. There are plenty of patriots in Eire, he added, but not enough patriotism. If it were possible, there ought to be a course of instruction in our schools on the subject of citizenship—its privileges, duties and responsibilities. It might produce a truer patriotism. Some of the school subjects ought to be given a rest in favour of truer citizenship.

WALL STREET CAUTIOUS

MOVEMENTS WERE NEGLIGIBLE

NEW YORK, Wednesday.—There was no definite trend on the Stock Exchange today, and price movements were negligible and well mixed throughout. While yesterday's nervousness waned, extreme caution lingered, and traders assumed a wait-and-see attitude.

The turnover totalled 440,000 shares, and, of the 703 stocks traded, 204 were higher, 286 were lower, and 213 remained unchanged.

The opening was very narrow, with a continuance of caution in view of the war developments and uncertainties over profit ceilings. The market was hesitant during the morning, though fractional gains were in the majority, notably among the Steels, Motors, and Aircrafts. However, real group trends were lacking.

The close was steady.—(Reuter.)

STOCK MARKET REPORTS

G.N. RAILS STILL ADVANCING

GREAT SOUTHERNS LOSE GROUND

There was a fair volume of business passing in Irish securities on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, but public interest was of a selective character. Breweries and Distilleries were in good request, and Rails again attracted a fair measure of attention.

Home Government Funds were well maintained, apart from 4 p.c. Conversion Loan, which fell to 110¼. 3½ p.c. War Loan tended higher and Dublin 3¼ p.c. 1944 made headway to 100⅞. Banks were quiet, but Nationals improved to 33/-.

Dublin Distillers issues enjoyed good support all day, and the "A" advanced to 9/10½ and the Ord. to 9/7½. Guinness Ord. recovered pence to 89/10½, and the Pref. added a fraction at 15⅛.

There was again a strong demand for Great Northern Rails, with the sole exception of the Pref., which, on profit-taking, lost a point at 28; the Ord. rose to 10, the Gtd. improved to 49½, and the Deb. strengthened a point to 66½. Great Southerns remained nervous, and the Gtd. gave way to 30, while the Deb. relapsed 30/- to 52¾.

Dublin Transport Ord. held steady, but Alliance Gas Ord. shaded off to 19/9. Ranks (Ireland) Pref. were raised to 26/- and Carroll Ord. jumped 1/- to 25/-. A few other local Industrials were dealt in at steady levels.

British Industrials were still easier inclined. Imperial Tobaccos gave way to 120/- and Ford Motors shed pence at 24/-. Coats Ord. held 37/3 and Courtaulds rose to 32/10½. Shell Transport Ord. were dull at about 53/6 and Burmah Oil Ord. quoted 61/3.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

The amount of credit available for market requirements remained in very comfortable supply. Money could be obtained from outside lenders towards the close of business at ½ p.c.

A small demand for silver was satisfied by sales from official sources, and prices at the fixing remained unchanged at 23½d. for spot and 23 7/16d. for forward.

Mr. John Maynard Keynes, the economist, was yesterday elected a director of the Bank of England in place of the late Lord Stamp.

HEAVY SELLING IN LONDON

SPECULATORS CUT THEIR LOSSES

News of the German thrust on Moscow intensified uncertainty on the London Stock Markets yesterday, and consequently speculators hastened to secure profits or cut their losses.

During the opening stages selling was in progress on a heavy scale, and, as on the previous day, popular favourites, such as Mexican Eagles, Ultramars and Blyvoors, were offered widely. Mexican Eagles dropped sharply to 11/7½ at one time, whilst Ultramars were sold down to 30/-, a fall of 1/10½.

Kaffirs managed to close above the worst, but, even so, Blyvoors sustained a loss of 1/9 to 29/9.

Among Industrials, Shipping shares further receded under the lead of Cunard, and many others, including Chemicals, Dunlops and Guinness, were quoted at reduced levels.

British Rails made little attempt to oppose the surrounding trend, and among other Rails "Canpacs" gave way ½ to 11.

British Government securities, too, lost ground at the start, but following the announcement of the new National War Bond issue the downward movement was checked, and eventually the market presented a fairly steady appearance, with Old War Loan only ⅛ off at 106⅛ and Old Consols unchanged at 82½. Foreigners remained idle.

Among the few firm Industrial features, Fords showed to best advantage with a gain of 4½d. to 24/6. Other Motors and Aircrafts were flat, with Rolls Royce 1/3 lower at 80/-. Shipping shares suffered an all-round decline, and in the Tobacco group "Bats" gave way to 93/9 and Carreras to 107/6. In the Brewery group Bass and Guinness each lost 1/- to 130/- and 90/-, respectively.

NEW WAR BONDS

Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the 2½ per cent. National War Bonds issue, which raised £494,000,000 and has now been discontinued, will be replaced from to-day by a new issue at par, carrying 2½ per cent. interest and being repayable at par on August 1, 1951, with a Treasury option to redeem on or after August 1, 1949.

DUNLOPS EASIER

Rayons, Steels and Stores also moved down, and among the last-named Marks and Spencer proved weak at 38/-. In the Miscellaneous group Chemicals were sold down to 32/7½, whilst Dunlops eased to 36/10½. "Emmies" to 12/10½ and Sudan Plantations to 22/6. On the other hand, Triplex improved slightly following the meeting.

A moderate turnover in Mines resulted almost wholly from profit-taking sales of non-developing Kaffirs, which were given a poor lead by Blyvoors. Western Reefs dropped 6d. to 35/9. Western Holdings 9d. to 17/6 and West Wits 1/3 to £5. Libanons and Marievales were other weak spots.

Diamonds pursued their recent downward course, and trifling declines in West African and Rhodesian descriptions completed a dull picture.

WICKLOW HARBOUR BOARD

The only members to attend the specially convened monthly meeting of the Wicklow Harbour Board on Tuesday were the seven members who last week tendered their joint resignations to protect their personal interests, in view of the financial position of the Board, and to force some action by the contributing bodies—Wicklow Urban District Council and Wicklow County Council—in the matter of preserving and carrying on the port affairs.

At a meeting of the Wicklow Urban District Council a letter from the Secretary of the Harbour Board, pointing out the position, was postponed for further consideration.

Smokers' 'Fur'
How to detect it—How to prevent it

Try this now. Run your tongue round your mouth — do you notice it . . . a rough woolly feeling. Smokers' fur has got a hold, and is staining your teeth. But don't worry, you can stop this fur from ruining the look of your teeth.

Dentists know smokers' fur is caused by excess acid in the mouth. Kill the acid and you shift the fur. What is the scientific way to destroy mouth acid? 12,000 dentists say 'Milk of Magnesia' brand antacid is the most effective antacid known. They recommend smokers to use the toothpaste containing 'Milk of Magnesia' — the only toothpaste containing it — Phillips' Dental Magnesia.

Commence fighting mouth acid tonight. Get a tube of Phillips' Dental Magnesia and clean your teeth with it each night and morning. Then you'll feel the difference; no more morning mouth; no more stale breath. Instead you'll have teeth which look clean, feel clean, are clean; a sweet mouth to give new zest to smoking. A mouth that will say Good morning! and mean it.
